

The Benefits of In Kennel Training

In-kennel training removes the owner from the training experience (to some degree) and can be advantageous for specific purposes. It provides a structured environment for your dog with clear boundaries, well defined training schedule, and well managed feeding routine.

Reasons for In-Kennel Training:

- ❖ Owner desires well behaved dog without participation in dog's learning process
- ❖ Owner is overwhelmed with specific behavioral problems
- ❖ Owner wants training to continue while away
- ❖ Maintenance training for dogs with purpose (service animals)
- ❖ Canine weight loss program

In Kennel training commonly includes 4 phases of 1) relationship building between trainer and dog, 2) acquisition of behaviors, 3) proofing of behaviors for proficiency long term, and 4) Knowledge/Handling transfer to owner. We emphasize premium care and personalized attention for each animal in a positive, fun-based environment. Video Demos of Sandra's training style may be viewed on the AppliedCanineBehaviors website under Resources.

We welcome you to tour our property, meet the trainer, and discuss any in-kennel training needs you may have.

Sandra Groschwitz | 1491 East Sample Road, Bloomington, Indiana | appliedcaninebehaviors.com | 812.269.6374

